Folding Tool Set for Advanced Weapon System

Bondhus Corporation recently designed a tool for use by the US Marine Corps. The Bondhus design team worked very closely with the Marines to develop a tool to be used with their new M39 rifles. Marines on the battlefield will use the tool to adjust and maintain their rifles. In the past, troops had to improvise tools to do this work, which often resulted in damage to the weapon.

The Marine Corps needs posed some difficult challenges for the Bondhus team. The tool design needed to include a socket, box wrench, two stepped reamer, screw holding hex keys, and a screwdriver. Bondhus was not only able to meet the design challenges, but also delivered the product in less than six weeks from the date the order was placed.

Bondhus has superior capabilities to design and manufacture unique specialty products. Our in-house production facilities allow us to provide quick deliveries on custom products. If your customers need a specialty or custom hex tool or other product make sure you contact Bondhus.
